

Historical themes of study

	People and the environment	Cultural development	Exploration, invasion and settlement	Creation, growth and economies	Technological advancement	Leadership and change in social structure
	Here we focus on the mutual impact of humans and their environments. Environments determined what people ate, how they travelled, what they built, and organized themselves.	Cultural elements such as religion, belief systems, arts and architecture, and ideas profoundly impacted human history. Cultures mingled through trade, travel and war.	Essentially this is about politics. How do people govern? How do people develop, expand, and resist political control?	Changes in production technologies and practices profoundly influenced the course of history; for example: The Agricultural and Industrial Revolution	World history offers innumerable examples of influential technologies and innovation. For example, Agricultural innovation Industrial revolution Medical advancements 20 th Century technological change	Here, we explore concepts such as gender, class, and race and religion
